I am not very anxious about the fate of the work, and therefore, I shall not offer any formal apology for its im perfections. These will be readily perceived by the reader of any experience. IMPERFECT, however, as is this Second Part, I hope the student of medicine and the young practitioner, for whom principally it is intended, will find it not less interesting than the preceding part. It contains additions to many of the articles which are mentioned in the former portion of the work, besides facts and observations concerning other articles, which are either entirely unnoticed, or merely named, there. Some of the newly named articles have never before been noticed in any work relative to the Materia Medica: such are Myrica cerifera, Prinos verticillatus, Hydrastis Canadensis, Frasera Walteri, and c. How far these are worthy of the attention of physicians, must be left to others to determine. TO render the work somewhat more useful, I have interspersed it with occasional practical remarks. Some of these remarks, I am very ready to allow, are not necessarily introduced into the work. Such are those respecting Arsenic, and Digitalis. But it will be recollected, that I am not in pursuit of anything like a methodical or regularly-digested work: and if any value be attached to the remarks, I shall cheerfully submit to be censured for my want of order and arrangement, in the management of my subject. THE principal, and...
