Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed U.S. obligations to its local national work force in Germany resulting from the drawdown of U.S. forces, focusing on: (1) the U.S. military's basic severance pay liability according to international agreements; (2) the potential for other costs increasing that liability; and (3) whether the Army and Air Force have sufficient funds to cover those liabilities. GAO found that: (1) in June 1991, the U.S. military's average severance pay liability under existing Tariff Agreement provisions was about $3,000 per person, or about $144 million, assuming that all 47,280 German employees of the U.S. military were eligible for full severance pay; (2) U.S. liability is not limited by Tariff Agreements and can be increased by German court decisions favoring terminated local nationals; (3) many local nationals won settlements averaging over $5,200 during recent base closures; (4) the United States has negotiated an agreement with the German labor unions on an indemnity plan that provides greater benefits, up to $4,400 per person, and reduces the probability that future terminations would be legally...
